4-Betting Out of Position. A major strategic difference between facing a 3-bet in position and out of position is the utility of the 4-bet. Because the value of position is reduced when stack-to-pot ratios are smaller, we can consider 4-betting a wider range when out of position in order to mitigate our positional disadvantage.

Revealed: How to React to Preflop 3-Bets In & Out of Position

Last time you learned about c-betting in position (IP) as the 3-bettor on two different types of flops (coordinated and uncoordinated). Today you'll learn about c-betting out of position (OOP) as the 3-bettor on the same two types of flops. Let's get to it. Editor's note: This article is marked as advanced.

One of the easiest ways to get away with a 3-bet bluff out of position is to realize when you won't be playing three streets. Position is only as important as the number of streets you play. When you move all-in with 17 big blinds preflop, it doesn't matter what position you're in. The guy can't exploit you.
